COLORS/SPECIES

Ipe (Tajibo)

An incredibly dense and exotic hardwood used to build docks and piers throughout the 20th century. A beautiful walnut to medium brown with a tightly grained pattern. Our Ipe is furniture grade quality and carries a 3680 psi density rating at 12% moisture. A fine choice for harsh climactic conditions.

Curupau

A rich mahogany burgundy colored hardwood with a darker and wider grain than Ipe. This wood is incredibly dense and considered one of the strongest decking materials with an incredibly high bending strength. We love this hardwood for its rich color yet organic contemporary look. Curupau carries a 2680 psi hardness rating at 12% moisture.

Garapa

Otherwise known as Goldenwood. A rich, colorful and lighter hardwood that can endure even the harshest climates. For those that like the beauty of Teak, Garapa is a great choice and will lighten to a silver patina with age. When oiled this wood will return to a rich golden color. Janka 2280 psi hardness rating at 12% moisture.

THE CARRIAGE

Our Carriage Frame Interlocking System

A proven and patented interlocking system separates our deck tiles from the competition. The patented support system provides a consistent spacing between lumber boards and adjacent tile. Combined with a tight locking tray system, this provides a deck floor that is stable and distributes weight proportionally. Made out of high density outdoor plastics, the carriage and interlocking system permits a quick installation or removal. Our tray makes our deck tiles safe to use on sensitive roofing membranes as well as other waterproof surfaces. Experience the difference of quality and construction with our deck tiles.
